

Product data sheet

Terminating resistor video

Reference number

SI V-RC

Terminating resistor video

(spare part)

A terminating resistor is connected between the TaM and TbM terminals of the audio module. This terminating resistor is required if the modular indoor station is the last device in a video line. If you loop the bus through the modular indoor station, this terminating resistor must be removed.